BOOK AMNESTY

Children receive reading books each week to enable you to share books with them at home. These books are also to be used in school.

Over the year we spend a considerable amount of the school budget on reading books as they are such a valuable resource. Books are not always returned to school, causing difficulties when working with groups of children.

Thank you for all the books which have been returned this week during the book amnesty.

We are still accepting any school books you may find at home. Thank you.
